

THEATRICAL.

—One of the unique novelties of staging this season is "Santa Fe" in "Buster Brown" at the Paris Grand on March 23, the chorus being costumed to suggest a floral effect. Vivid coloring and beautiful designs make this a veritable feast of feminine delight.

"THE GIRL FROM THE U. S. A."

—In a late review of theatrical productions by a prominent dramatic critic, the play, "The Girl from the U. S. A.," received a full measure of praise.

The story deals with an American girl who has been placed in an aristocratic convent in Paris, France, that her education might receive an ultra "finish." There she has formed a deep and lasting friendship with Vivienne de Voltone, a French girl.

The play opens with a deep intrigue, both social and political, on the part of the Turkish Ambassador to France. The girl follows her abducted friend into the innermost recesses of the secretly guarded harem of a Turkish pasha, and in the guise of a new "favorite" is terrorized to find that the very Turk whose scheme she is trying to frustrate, has fallen in love with her. Only by shrewd diplomacy can she save herself from the clutches of an unlicensed barbarian. And later, in the ceremonious mazes of Chinese society, her native wit saves the day for herself and friends.

Although the plot leads one among the scenes of Oriental splendor, the tone of the play remains vividly and thoroughly American in sentiment. The climaxes are thrilling and unexpected, and the comedy of several novel characters is as welcome as it is diverting. There are some splendid musical numbers added to an already complete entertainment, and altogether "The Girl from the U. S. A." is somebody you will want to be acquainted with when she appears at the Paris Grand tonight. Seats on sale at Mitchell & Blakemore's outfitters-to-men.

An Old Relic.

An interesting relic in the way of a tax receipt that has passed the century mark in age and is now in the possession of the fourth generation of one of the most prominent families of the county, the children of the late James Duncan—Mrs. George R. Bell, Mrs. James K. Ford, Mrs. W. P. Chambers and Mrs. Hannah Taylor. The document which is written with the old time quill pen, is yellow with age, but well preserved. It is a receipt for taxes in the year 1803 and was issued to Capt. James Duncan, an officer of the Revolutionary War, who owned more than 1,200 acres of land on the Winchester pike, now the property of James E. Clay.

The receipt passed to his son, Major Jeremiah Duncan, who served in the war of 1812 and then descended to James Duncan, father of its present owners, who prize it very highly and who may donate it to the Kentucky Historical Society in Frankfort.

The receipt which was issued by John L. Hickman, clerk of the county court, reads as follows:

To 622 acres of first rate land valued at 62 1-2 cents per acre, $4.14.
To 625 acres third rate land, valuation 16 7-10 per acre, 98.
To 11 leveys each 25 cents, $2.75.
To 12 slaves valued at 12 1-2 cents each $1.50
To 14 horses valued at 4 cents each 56 cents.
A total of $9.98.

Unit Bill Killed in Senate

The Kentucky Senate in a stormy session Friday and after a long debate over the county unit measure and the bill providing for the reading of the Bible in the public schools, virtually killed the Waggoner county unit bill, which passed the House, and the Bible reading bill was recommitted.

A Constipation Remedy Free

There is no action of your daily life of greater importance than to see that your bowels move. They should move at least once a day naturally, and by that is meant without any help. If they do not move at least once a day you can consider yourself constipated and it is time you did something about it.

You will be glad to know there is a way out of the difficulty. Lemuel Landerdale, an old soldier at Quincy, Ill., Elmer McMillan, of Speed, Mo., Monahan, of Stonewall, Miss., and many others were as you are now. But one day they awoke to the fact that Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin was curing their friends, so they bought it too and it cured them. Today they are loud in praise of it.

What Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin did for them it should do for you. Surely your constipation is no worse than theirs, one of whom had it since '61. It only remains for you to realize that salts are of but temporary good, and what you want is a permanent cure; that purgative tablets, cathartic pills and such violent things make a great show of doing something, but do nothing that is lasting. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a scientific preparation, a laxative- tonic, a mild syrupy liquid that contains ingredients that not only cure the constipation, but tone the intestinal muscles so that they learn again to work without help. A bottle can be bought of any druggist for the small price of 50 cents, and there is a dollar size for families who have already found out its wonderful value in stomach, liver and bowel troubles, in old or young.

Send your name and address to the doctor and a free trial bottle will be sent you so that you can test it before buying. If there is anything about your ailment that you don't understand, or if you want any medical advice, write to the doctor, and he will answer you fully. There is no charge for this service. The address is Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 500 Caldwell bldg., Monticello, Ill.

A PRISON HORROR.

Awful Fate of a Russian Political Offender.

David Soskice writes in McClure's Magazine of the horrors of the Schluselsburg, Russia's political prison.

"Grachevsky, unable to stand his life any longer," says he, "struck a guard in order to be executed. But the commandant of the fortress declared him to be insane and therefore exempt from punishment."

"Then," said Grachevsky, "it remains for me but to kill myself." He was taken to the 'stable' and kept there under most vigilant watch.

"One night," related Ludmilla Volkenstein, "a terrible, inhuman shriek was heard. Footsteps hurried toward Grachevsky's cell. Feeble groans followed, and then his door was quickly opened, and it was evident that something terrible had happened to him. Smoke and the smell of burnt clothing and flesh pervaded the building and hung about it till the following day. We then knew that Grachevsky had burnt himself alive. He had soaked his clothes and bedding with the oil from the little night lamp and, rolling himself up in his blanket, had set it on fire. For several days beforehand he had disarmed the suspicions of his guards by exceedingly rational behavior, so that they had relaxed their watchfulness a little and enabled him to commit the dreadful deed."

STONE AGE CUSTOMS.

Ancient Habits Still Endure Among Natives of Rural Roumania.

Customs and habits directly traceable back to the end of the stone age are still observed by the inhabitants of the remoter parts of rural Roumania, says Dr. Emil Fischer of Bucharest in the Umschau. The latest statistics show that there are still in Roumania over 54,000 cave dwellings in existence, in which a quarter of a million peasant folk live. These caves are almost as primitive in their arrangements as the original cave dwellings of the stone age.

As recently as in the eighties of the last century, the oldest Indo-Germanic grain, was still crushed in Roumania by means of hand mills and stored in peculiarly shaped granaries similar to those used by the natives of central Africa. Today the Roumanian peasants still use ancient plows. At funerals a repast named coliba is partaken of consisting of soaked and boiled corn the exact way corn was first prepared and eaten by the tribes of Europe.

Even today crabapples and wild pears are the only fruit known to the Roumanian peasant, and his vegetables are wild herbs boiled with oil pressed from sunflower, hemp and gourd seeds. Medical men in rural Roumania are still known among the peasantry as wizards.

He Had Learned It.

Willie, five years old, was in his father's office one afternoon waiting to go home with him. Mr. S. was very much occupied—in fact, so much so that he had quite forgotten that his young son was sitting behind him. At length the telephone rang, and Mr. S. was told that there was a long distance call for him. He called "Hello!" a number of times, and just when his patience had about given out central rang vigorously while the receiver was still at his ear. At this Mr. S. uttered a terrible and forbidden word.

The words were no sooner out of his mouth than he remembered that his son was but a few feet from him. Wheeling about in his chair, he said, with humility:

"That was very wrong of father to say those naughty words, Willie. I hope," he added, "that my little boy will never use such dreadful language."

"I—I won't never say it, papa," replied the child, with a mischievous twinkle in his eye, "but I learned it all the same!"—Harper's Magazine.
